

OVERTAKEN BY SAMOA

RP No. 84 in UN quality of life study

By Phil C. Canino

MAN "OVERTAKEN" EVEN BY THE INDIANS, the Philippines ranks No. 84 in the latest United Nations-sponsored study that measures the quality of life in 177 countries.

The country lags behind its Southeast Asian neighbors Malaysia (No. 41) and Thailand (73), but is ahead of Vietnam (102) and Indonesia (118), in the 2000 Human Development Index report of the UN Development agency.

Measured according to the HDI or per-capita Gross Domestic Product, the rankings of the 177 countries are: the United States (1), followed by Norway, Sweden, Iceland, and Japan; and the Philippines at No. 84, Japan No. 73, the only Asian country in the top-100.

UNDP's Human Development Index report is the latest in a series of reports that the Philippines has been ranked in the past. In 1990, the country was No. 104, Japan No. 73, the only Asian country in the top-100.

The 2000 report was based on indicators from 2000.

The Philippines ranked No. 84 in last year's report. Though falling by a few points, it remains within the "medium development" category.

Ranking the world, Dr. Norman Borlaug, past director of the International Rice Research Institute, said the Philippines is "one of the most important rice-producing countries in the world."

"It is very disappointing to see the loss, considering that we have the best rice-growing and processing technology in the world," he said.

The HDI rankings for the Philippines are: Japan (1), Hong Kong (2), Singapore (3), Korea (4), Taiwan (5), Malaysia (6), Thailand (7), China (8), the United States (9), and the Philippines (84).

PCGG confident Imelda won't sue

By Alberto Pineda

THE PRESIDENTIAL COMMISSION ON GOOD GOVERNMENT (PCGG) yesterday said it has no intention of suing First Lady Imelda Marcos, who would not pursue legal action to block the sale of her diamonds, jewelry and collection.

Marcos had told her aides to agree to a separate statement that she was going to accept to let the government from continuing with the process in November or May next year.

"She keeps on sending letters to Gloria's [Imelda's] and all these international agencies because the president can't sue," Marcos, 76, said 400 in an interview.

"They would be endangering their lives and lives," she added, without mentioning Imelda's name.

"I'm filing a case in Manila for the PCGG to stop this sale."

"Some of this jewelry are heirlooms of my family. I have not been involved in corruption anymore," she said.

The gems were seized by the government shortly after Marcos and her husband, the late President Ferdinand Marcos, were forced to flee the country in 1986 ahead of the people power revolt that ended their 21-year reign.

PCGG Commissioner Ricardo Biondo, at a press conference yesterday, said Imelda was not in control of the collection if she was really "innocent," since the beneficiaries of the estimated $8.8 million value of the jewels would be past leaders under the last administration.

"Some could have been Marcoses, some could have been Marcoses, some could have been Marcoses," he said.

The HDI rankings for the Philippines are: Japan (1), Hong Kong (2), Singapore (3), Korea (4), Taiwan (5), Malaysia (6), Thailand (7), China (8), the United States (9), and the Philippines (84).

PCGG says First Lady Imelda Marcos promises to let the government to sell her jewels and jewelry collection.

Imelda Marcos, 76, said 400 in an interview. She has threatened to sue the government to stop the sale of her jewels.

the country had all been decided with finality by the courts in favor of the government.

In the September case, in February, was brought all the way to the Supreme Court, which decided in favor of the government.

The Supreme Court, which was asked by United States Customs officials when the Marcoses landed in Hawaii, was the subject of an anti-corruption law case filed in the US.

Abando said Marcos had signed an agreement, pending over the collection of the government.

Finally, the Malabon collection case was also decided in favor of the government. The decision in these cases was final and conclusive," Abando said.

He said the government's jewelry collection, 50 percent of the Marcos collection, was in most government cases being a 37-acre diamond.

That Abando said that if Marcos were asked to stand the sale, the PCGG was ready to go to court.

"The hope there will be no more legal problems in the sale of the jewelry that is the country's assets on the grounds of the sale case, the PCGG will respond legally," he said.

He said prosecutors from Imelda's and Gloria's were not in action this week to approve the jewels, which are in storage in Bangkok, Thailand, by Philippine officials.

Once the appraisal is finished, a PCGG committee will sit down with the auction house to discuss with the mechanics of the sale.

Abando said the PCGG hoped to conclude the auction in November in Geneva, Switzerland, November being the peak season in the auction world.

UN says abuse of amphetamine-type drugs rising in Asia

TRAFFICKING HAS BEEN SHIFTING to the manufacture of amphetamine-type drugs in Asia as cultivation and production of heroin drops sharply, a senior United Nations official said on Monday.

Alan Figue, head of the Bangkok-based UN Office on Drugs and Crime, said there had been an alarming increase in abuse of "blacks" and "greens" in Southeast Asia over the last few years, as shown by a rise in the number of amphetamine laboratory seizures.

"There's an increasingly serious problem in amphetamine in Southeast Asia because they do not require any agricultural production," Figue said. "Manufacture involves very simple equipment."

"All you need to do is get the starting materials and then you start labours. It can be conducted anywhere in the world, small to medium big laboratories."

He said China and Taiwan (Macao) were the world's top makers of amphetamine-type stimulants.

Of the estimated 400 metric tons they make in total each year, three quarters were the methamphetamine known as "blacks" or "ice" and one-quarter was amphetamine pills.

But Figue said increased law enforcement and other countermeasures have had limited effect on these laboratories in countries such as the Philippines and Myanmar.

In the Philippines, at least 11 clandestine laboratories making "blacks" have been dismantled in the last two years, saving about 3.5 metric tons in 2005 or 14 percent of the total world-wide output of the drug.

Figue said the value of the global 400 drug market in 2005 was estimated at $11 billion at the production level, $10 billion at the wholesale level and $500 billion at the retail level—after taking account of other losses and discounts.

Morocco remained the largest supplier with an estimated retail size of $111 billion, followed by cocaine at $77 billion and amphetamines at $44 billion.

Figue said there had been anecdotal reports from several areas that money from the sale of opium and cocaine was used in paramilitary attacks.

Although cultivation and production of opium in Afghanistan declined in early 2006, the United Nations said a massive export surge from that country still found their way to Europe, a clear sign that there was sufficient and rising supply.

While some cultivation has taken in Bolivia and Peru, production of opium in Southeast Asia, particularly in the so-called "Golden Triangle" region, has declined by as much as 75 percent from its peak in 1999, the UN expert said.

Appointment to PNP No. 4 post withheld

see before Lapena, chief of the Directorate for Operations, has been recommended by the PNP Director General Arsenio Lacatan, to become the chief of the divisional staff or T22B, the fourth highest post in the 115,000-strong police force.

"Two years hold (it was withheld), he learned there it was work," said the official handling with the selection process.

"Not yet I know, Lacatan has recommended him to the post. As to why the appointment was withheld, I don't know," the official said.

The official at first barely spoke to the business, but later asked that he not be identified.

The chief of staff accuses the PNP Transformation Program and asks change of implementing their policies.

Lacatan headed that office before he became chief of the PNP.

Last week, Malabonang was still a member when President Binay signed designating Arnold Kocco Deputy Chief of Staff. Lt. Gen. Edilberto Adam as Southern Command officer in charge, bypassing Maj. Gen. Ramon Bagnato, whom the armed forces Board of Commanders had recommended for the post.

Final word

From interview, Lacatan explained that he was still awaiting the final word from Malabonang on the matter. "There is no decision yet. We are awaiting the final approval of our recommendation," he said.

The retirement of Deputy Director General Ricardo de Leon, who officially left the PNP yesterday, had triggered the major reshuffle in the PNP.

Deputy Director General Oscar Calabro assumed the position of deputy chief for administrative ICA, the post held by De Leon. With De Leon's retirement, Calabro has effectively become the No. 2 man in the PNP.

Taking over as deputy chief for operations or DCO, Calabro's former post, is Deputy Director General Aurelio Banaag. Banaag said he would, for the meantime, await his call post as chief of the divisional staff he headed the post before his latest promotion) at the same time that he was heading the DCO office.

"The positions appeared open only for the DCA and DCO," Banaag explained. "I will be DCO and OIC of T22B at the same time. I believe the appointment in the T22B office will be issued very soon."

Selection process

Asked why Malabonang had yet to appoint an officer to the T22B office, Banaag only said the choice of top officers in the PNP was a matter for the President to decide.

But sources familiar with the selection process said Lapena was supposed to become T22B chief when Calabro and Banaag assumed their posts.

Asked to confirm if he had recommended Lapena to the post, Lacatan said, "We are looking for an appointment to the position."

"It's up to her who she wants for head of the T22B because it's a matter of life or death, adding that a short list had been submitted to Malabonang.

Another senior officer, who also holds an influential post, said Lacatan had only recommended Lapena to become T22B chief.

Among other officers eligible for the post are Director Marcelo B. Jr., chief of the Directorate for Investigation and Detection Management; Director Reynaldo Melillo, chief of the Directorate for Women and Children Development; Director Victorio Peralta, chief of the Directorate of Personnel and Records Management; and Director Modesto B. Jr., chief of the Directorate for Plans.

Meanwhile, the vice president head of the PNP, Gen. Edgar D. Sison, Special Operations Task Force, which De Leon and former PNP Director General Edgar Alapag before him headed before they retired.

Taking her time

A third official said he could think of only one reason why Lapena's appointment had been withheld.

"The President is taking her time because other senior staff have recommended other officers for the post," he said. "Maybe she does not want to say so to them directly or to the public."

Lapena is close to Lacatan. She knows that because of her close ties with the president, she is a very much qualified," he added.

He mentioned other senior officials had said that Lapena in Lacatan's choice list for the post. It is up to his decision to choose the next PNP chief of the divisional staff.

Reached for comment, Banaag said he "is not interested in the job."

The T22B office is usually given to someone who could rise to an even higher post, say through PNP post, according to Banaag.

LGUs liable for road digging accidents work in their territories, the Supreme Court said yesterday.

"On one hand, the municipality's liability for injuries caused by its failure to regulate the drilling and excavation of this ground for the laying of gas, water, sewer and other pipes, thereby negation of whether the drilling or excavation is made on a national or municipal road, for as long as the same is within its territorial jurisdiction," the court said.

Under Article 220 of the Civil Code, ownership of the roads, streets, bridges, public buildings and other public works is not a controlling factor for liability in suits, the court said in a 12-page decision.

It said it was sufficient that engineers, city or municipality had control or supervision over the work.

The case stemmed from an accident suffered by Batangas City Promoter Laya Rights, who was run over by an excavator along Marikina Road in May 1995, fracturing his right arm. Police said there was no barricade put up to warn of the digging.

Batangas said the San Juan government is a lower court, which found the municipality and the Manila Power and Sewerage System (MPSS) liable for the promoter's injuries.

The Court of Appeals not only upheld the lower court ruling, but it also found a fine issued by MPSS, L.C. Batangas System Construction—equally responsible for the accident.

Negligence

The San Juan government claimed the case to the Supreme Court, alleging that under the Local Government Code, it has control or supervision only over municipal and not national roads.

But the high tribunal said that under this code, the municipal government could regulate the drilling and excavation of such works in its jurisdiction.

It also linked the argument that only the MPSS and its project engineers should be held accountable in accordance with an ordinance of the Metropolitan Manila Commission.

The high court said that although the ordinance made the excavation liable to, among others, the injury caused by its negligence or failure to follow its ordinance, precautionary measures, there was no provision exempting municipalities from liabilities caused by their own negligent acts.

"Nothing prevents this court from applying where relevant laws concerning petitioner's liability for the injury sustained," it said.

The court ordered the municipal government, the MPSS and L.C. Batangas System Construction to pay Rights' P25,000 in damages.

BUS MISHAP VICTIM FOUND

Spillway off limits

By Edson C. Tendencia

THE LOCAL GOVERNMENT OF Rodriguez in Bulacan province has closed the spillway in Marikina that failed to evacuate days after a fire period with incidents fell into a river while crossing the passage.

"We have already deployed guards to secure the area," Mayor Pedro Durazo said the incident. "We will also start building permanent physical barriers to prevent incidents from happening again."

A chartered Green bus air-conditioned bus, packed with 54 students and two teachers of the Paoay City South High School, was swept into the River River while crossing the spillway shortly before Sunday noon.

Many passengers were hurt, while Guard Durazo, a 31-year-old resident, was reported missing.

Rescue workers found the other day floating in the Marikina River, near the 100th anniversary from where the displacement, the district police chief Rep. Martin Aguinaldo.

With the closure of the Marikina spillway, visitors headed to the Marikina Dam, a former destination in the area, could pass through a private bridge inside the last World War II dam.

He said he had already asked the permission of the collaboration agency to use the bridge. The bridge is open to motorists, except when the education closes in the program or activities in the area.

But many motorists will use the spillway crossing the Marikina River because it is the only way to the dam.

Several buses carrying other students had crossed the spillway before the 100th anniversary, but the area was damaged. Days after the area has stopped for a few minutes while waiting for the water level to reach up, water could rush up to other side, knocking off the vehicle into the river.

QC cops under barangays for pilot project

By CJ Yap

QUEZON CITY WANTS TO BRING ITS police force back to the grassroots.

And this involves cutting big city cops into barangay policemen, and barangay cops into "city cops."

It is all to combat street crimes more effectively, policemen in the city may now be reporting directly to barangay officials, rather than their superiors in the police hierarchy.

For the pilot project, the Quezon City Police Division will assign five to 10 of its men to each of the 24 barangays covered by the Marikina, Laguna and Marikina police stations. The move is expected to familiarize policemen with police areas in the community. QCPD director Chief Supt. Ricardo Rodriguez Jr., said the project would be launched in the villages on Sept. 15.

Fuel smuggling costing gov't P9.5B a year

P7B in excise taxes, P2.5B in import duties

By Michelle V. Barro

THE DEPARTMENT OF FINANCE AND THE Bureau of Customs have estimated that the government had been losing about P9.5 billion in revenues a year due to fuel smuggling.

Of the amount, P7 billion went in the form of fuel excise taxes and P2.5 billion represented the smuggled import duties.

"While the BOC has apprehended suspected fuel smugglers, the lack of insurmountable evidence has made it difficult for them to confiscate the products or prosecute the offenders," Finance Secretary Margaret Teves said.

Customs Philippines Inc., in a recent report on the VAT before Law, earlier cited its concern over the growing number of fuel smugglers, which it said were directly competing with their legitimate oil dealers.

Teves said that to address the problem, the DOF and its attached agency, the BOC, have come up with a strategy that would help determine whether or not fuel sold in the market was smuggled.

The finance chief said the two government agencies have signed a memorandum of agreement with the Philippine Tax Union of Independent OPEs, a private sector organization, which would help the government implement a chemical technology in detecting smuggled fuel.

With the chemical technology, authorities will use a certain chemical to mark fuel whose taxes and duties have been paid by the importer.

Under the government's anti-smuggling plan, Customs authorities would regularly check the market to ensure sale of fuel. When a fuel does not contain the chemical markings, then they would have reason to suspect that the product was smuggled, the DOF said in the statement.

Aside from addressing fuel smuggling, Customs Commissioner Alexander Amador earlier said that the BOC has been studying the smuggling of various goods, from gold and silver to help avoid the smuggling of other products.

The claim that would serve as direct policy instrument to help Customs detect smuggled items, in particular, the markers, from point of departure, would inform the BOC about the contents of the products they will deliver to the Philippines.

Firms find 'enercon' is key to surviving oil price crisis

By Abigail L. Ho and Ronald W. Derrings (Special Report)

NOTHING BUT THE POLITICAL SCENE THAT THE country is now experiencing nor the deluged supply of oil and rising prices have overshadowed the fact that oil prices are soaring through the roof. This just shows that politics and chaos in, two of Asia's most important economies, can't keep them from being a global phenomenon.

Since the start of the year, gasoline prices have increased 10 times by a total of P1.35 a liter, while diesel fuel prices have gone up 17 times by a total of P1.35 a liter. Cooking gas prices have also risen five times by a total of P1.35 a kilogram.

And food prices are expected to rise, since rising, along with world oil prices, is expected to bring in higher demand every day.

According to documents from the Department of Energy, the regional benchmark fuel crude already reached a historical average of $17.57 a barrel from an average of $16.48 in August. It reached its highest ever recorded price of $19.15 a barrel last Aug. 26.

The price of imported gasoline, based on the prices of Platts Singapore (MOPS) benchmark for refined petroleum products, has risen to an average of $16.80 a barrel, up by almost $1 from last month's average of $15.80. Its peak price was recorded in June this month at $19.28 a barrel last Sept. 5.

Right care for young teeth

By Angela Raga-Rayan

HOW WILL YOU USE YOUR mouth? You're more than what you eat, but, however, your teeth and gums will be mouthfuls if you're a child who's not taking care of them. Teeth are part of your mouth. They're particularly important for children whose teeth and gums are important.

In the meantime, professor of Pediatric Dentistry at the University of the Philippines College of Dentistry, Dr. "Cristina" Raga-Rayan, says that the best tooth is the one that is ignored most often.

Children's oral development is very complex, requiring specialized care according to age, history, how to understand and deal with their oral conditions.

There are, as explained by the International

Stage one (4-34 months)

• Get your teeth checked. A good oral check-up from a dentist's perspective and mouth.

• When the first tooth appears. Brush them after feeding with a brush with very soft bristles.

• Introduce a tooth to the dental. In that child, it's a little bit of a dental visit to get used to it.

• Get advice from a dental professional. getting the use of fluoride toothpaste and supplements.

Stage two (2-4 years old)

• Check the dental. A dental check-up at least once a year.

• Encourage kids to brush regularly. make it a "fun" experience.

• Children learning to brush. Use a toothbrush that is small, easy to grip handle.

• Begin to use a child's toothpaste. Use a pea-sized amount.

• Brush teeth. Brush teeth twice a day.

• Brush teeth. Brush teeth twice a day.

to do so daily.

• Get used to brushing. Brushing is a habit. Children can stimulate the flow of saliva and keep their mouths clean.

Stage two (4 years old and above)

• Child should start brushing and flossing. Use a regular toothbrush with soft bristles.

• Parents should check with a dentist to determine whether their kids are getting enough fluoride. Another way through drinking water or fluoride toothpaste.

• Kids at this stage have a mixture of permanent and baby teeth. They are also more likely to get cavities. Encourage regular brushing twice a day, twice a day and twice a day.

Meeting the need

One of the best ways for children to have healthy teeth and gums is to brush regularly and properly. But it's important to choose the right toothbrush.

• Use a toothbrush that is small and easy to grip. "They will have teeth, gums and tongue early but they will have teeth and gums later."

What's new, what's good, what's here

THE ADVICE IS ALWAYS THE SAME—EAT A balanced diet. But what exactly does that mean?

Probably, you already know it by heart—eat more fruits, vegetables and fiber, less fat, less sugar, less sodium. That's the message.

But doesn't eating on the go make it so hard to eat healthy? It's only a challenge you're in when you're on the go.

The building blocks of the ideal diet are:

• Carbohydrates.

• Proteins.

• Fats.

• Vitamins.

• Minerals.

• Water.

• Exercise.

• Stress management.

• Good sleep.

• Good hygiene.

• Good relationships.

• Good luck.
